CAMP FIRE GIRLS GO TO
BIG BASIN19 Girls Leave for Two Weeks of Camping
In Redwoods

GUARDIAN LEADER

Four Councilors Assist the Guardians With Work of the Camp

Tinega group of Camp Fire Girls left for a two weeks' encampment in Big Basin, yesterday morning. A large camp site has been rented there for this year's camp. Previously the girls have attended the camp belonging to Stockton in El Dorado Forest, called Minkalo. Mrs. J. E. Townsend, guardian of the girls, is in charge of the camp. She is to be assisted by Mrs. Elmer Brinkmeyer, assistant guardian.

The same regulations are to be made at this camp as other camps in the state. Because of the fifty dollars given to the club by the local Boy Scout troop through the gift of William H. Ford, requiring the scouts to pay $100 a year on the building donated them, this Big Basin camp was made possible. Sixteen Camp Fire girls paid ten dollars each for their food for the two weeks, while the non-members paid the regular fee of 14.50. Food will be standard as prescribed by Dr. Goodman, who arranged the menus for last year's camp. Mrs. M. Carthy, camp cook, promises to add several pounds on the girls before they return to their homes in the township.

There are to be four councilors to assist in the maintenance of the camp. They are Misses Gertrude Ellsworth, Elizabeth Shinn, Lois Abbott and Grace Smethers, who have had several years of Camp Fire training.

Mrs. Townsend has planned a program that can hardly be beaten for its constructiveness, recreation, and habit forming during a two week's outdoor camp period.

The following is the schedule of a day's stay in camp:

6:45 Reveille.
7:10 Set-up exercises and salute to the flag.
7:40 Breakfast.
Tent Cleanup followed by inspection.

Morning Sing.
Inspection report.
9:30 Classes: First Aid, Swimming and Nature, are the courses to be offered.
12:10 Lunch.
1 to 2 Rest hour.
2 to 3 Quiet hour to read, sew or write letters.

3:00 Hot drink of malted milk.
3:00 Afternoon classes in handicraft, campcraft, and dramatics.
4:30 General play.
5:10 Clean up.
5:30 Colors.
5:45 Dinner.

7:30 Camp Fire around which stories are to be told, programs presented, singing of camp songs, and stunts. One big play is to be presented.

UNDERSHERIFF IS DISMISSED FROM OFFICE

It is reported that H. Morton Springer, of Alvarado, was dismissed this week as undersheriff of Alameda county, by Sheriff M. B. Driver. J. J. Hanifin, who has been a deputy for twenty-eight years, was appointed to take Springer's place.

At the time of the dismissal Sheriff Driver made the statement that the removal was "for the good of the service," and made a reference to "loyalty" among members of his department.

Several political observers say that the change was made because many of the present staff are affiliated with the faction which elected former Sheriff Burton F. Becker, now under sentence of one to four years in San Quentin for conspiracy to bribe.

The new undersheriff, Hanifin, was appointed a deputy in 1902, and has been in charge of the civil department of the sheriff's office.

APRICOT MEN DRY
FRUIT RATHER THAN SELL LOW

A $1,654,000 program for the benefit of the prune and apricot growers of California, designed to protect them against low prices offered by canners, was announced last week by O. A. Harlan, general manager of the California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, with headquarters in San Jose.

The program became effective immediately Harlan said, with cash payments totaling $320,000 to the 11,000 members, which is an immediate benefit to apricot growers who are faced with a top price of $42.50 per ton as against $80 last year.

These payments are to be followed by the issuance of $1,334,000 in "equity certificates" secured by the liquid assets of the association. These will be retired at the rate of one-seventh each year.

The purpose of the program, Harlan said, is to enable growers to dry their fruit and market it through the association rather than sell to the canners at the present low prices. Many local growers are drying their apricots at present.

THREE INJURED
IN AUTO WRECK
NEAR NURSERY

Three men were injured as a result of an automobile accident near the Holy Sepulchre cemetery on the Niles-Hayward highway, Sunday.

The driver of the sedan car that was wrecked was Epiphany Suarez, 35, of Decoto. The three men who were riding with him were injured and not the driver himself. All were treated at a Hayward hospital.

It is reported that Suarez was attempting to pass a truck driven by Reginald R. Gonsalves, 26, of Centerville, and failed to see Gonsalves' signal for a left turn. As Gonsalves started to turn, Suarez drove his car into the ditch to avoid a collision, which overturned the car. Investigation of the accident was made by State traffic officer Anthony Enos.

H. S. TRUSTEES TO PURCHASE FIFTY
PASSENGER STAGENew Bus To Be Used In Heavy Run Over the Mission Hills

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Washington Union High School, Monday evening, it recommended the purchase of a Fageol motor stage. This was the lowest bid received in the closed bids. If all legalities are all right and it receives the endorsement of the District Attorney's office, the board will purchase the bus. A special meeting of the trustees will have to be called by President Justus Overacker, of Mission San Jose, for this purpose.

This new bus which will make the sixth of the high school busses, will hold fifty students. It will be used over the Mission San Jose, Warm Springs and Irvington route. Because of the Mission hills it was necessary to get such a heavy bus. It is to be furnished and equipped with the latest materials used in high school busses.

At a public meeting held in the school auditorium on May 28, it was voted that the bus service should be retained in order to transport over 350 students to and from their homes in the township. The total cost of running the five busses for the year 1928-29 was $7,495. Apportionment received from the state for the year was $10,372, and from the county, $19,746.

It is reported that the oldest bus which has been in service for about ten years, will soon have to be taken out of service. With the new fifty-passenger bus the needs of transportation of the students will be taken care of for several years.

New Station House Built
At Entrance On the Lower Highway.

The center unit of the Masonic Home situated on the hills between Decoto and Niles will be completed in a few weeks. Only a few jobs on the interior remain to be finished before the building will be thrown open to the executives for the official inspection before the Masonic Lodge of California accepts it.

This $300,000 brick building has five stories and a basement. The first floor is to be called the administration building as it will house the superintendent's office, matron's office, library, information office and a beautiful reception salon.

The four upper stories are divided into ninety rooms which will house that many women. All modern conveniences are installed on each floor.

As the reporter entered the new structure which is a sturdy giant in its architectural features, he ascended a flight of brick steps with stone masonry on the sides. The porch is long and shaded, with five gothic arches and cement pillars of exquisitely carved figures adorning them. The porch roof is made into a balcony and there are two other balconies constructed on the outside of the second floor, one on each side of the porch roof.

The plate glass windows which are gifts from different Masonic orders were preserved from the old building which was razed and were placed in the new building.

The lobby is finished in ornamental tile, iron work, and painted ceilings. All of the offices are roomy and light, making a great improvement over the old dark offices. The reception room is to be furnished in an elegant style in harmony with the other rooms.

In the center of the lobby is a graceful stairway ascending in two directions to the second floor. The steps are of marble and the railings of light oak carved in ornamental shapes.

Upon reaching the second floor one may go out and stand on the balcony and get a view of the fertile valleys stretching out to the San Francisco bay, all East Bay cities, San Francisco and the purple Coast Range mountains on the other side of the bay. It is on this floor that the first living quarters can be seen. Each room is individual and contains space for the bedroom furniture, a wash basin and wardrobe. The rooms are finished in cream plaster and decorated in pale green. Gilded radiators are being installed in every room and battleship linoleum is laid on the floors.

There are social halls for the gathering of the residents of this building. Tiled drinking fountains and lavatories grace each floor. From the top floor there is a spiral stairway leading to the attic. Observation rooms are on each floor so that all may enjoy the view, sunrise or sunset. The roof is covered with hand made mission tiles.

This unit completes the Masonic home which now consists of a wing on each side of this structure, a hospital, dining room, theater auditorium, Sliminoff temple, and a number of cottages. The cornerstone reads, October 14, 1896, when

BANDITS ROB MAN
OF $200.00 IN
HOLD-UP

Joe Deltrami, who operates a store on the intersection of the Santos road with the highway near Centerville, was robbed of $200 at 10 o'clock last Thursday night.

Two men entered the store and called for a package of cigarettes and when the proprietor turned around he faced a muzzle of a gun held in the hands of one of the hold-up men. The other robber then ordered Deltrami into a rear room where he was forced to lie on the floor with his face down, while the robbers made a quick getaway.

While untangling his hands and legs from the cords with which he was bound his attackers got too far away to make pursuit feasible.

It is reported that the men took about $100 in cash and another 100 in checks.

Constables Tom Silva and Manuel Bernardo were called to the scene of the robbery where they made immediate investigations. Information sent to other cities may lead to the bandits' arrest.

TAX RATE RISES
IN ALAMEDA COUNTY

The trend of the cost of government in Alameda county during the past five years is indicated by the increase of nineteen cents in both inside and outside county tax rates during this period, according to a study of county tax rates recently completed by California Taxpayers' association. The tax rate for the fiscal year 1924, according to the association, was $1.52 per $100 of assessed valuation inside and $1.92 per $100 of assessed valuation outside of the incorporated areas of the county. The 1929 inside county tax rate was $1.71 while the outside rate was $2.11.

The county tax rate for 1929 was applied upon an assessed valuation of 45 per cent of the actual value of properties in the county, while the 1924 rate was applied upon an assessed valuation of 47 per cent for inside real estate, 42 per cent for inside improvements and 41 per cent of actual value for outside properties.

During this five year period the assessed valuation of Alameda county increased from $329,912,967 in 1924 to $446,689,877 in 1929.

GET IT, IT MATTERS NOT HOW!

NO DOUBT the acquisition of material wealth has been uppermost in the minds of men since property rights have been protected by the earliest form of government.

Much is written by the essayist of the day on the evils of the modern money god, assuming without submitting any evidence in support, that greed for gold is an evil born of this generation, the disease being especially virulent in America.

Modern invention has increased production in all lines the world over by ten-fold. Science, moving like a miracle in this age, has solved the transportation problem, turned night into day in our industrial centers, and met the fuel situation and solved it. Machinery of the most intricate forms does the work that ten times our people could not do without its aid.

The opportunity for gaining riches is, therefore, greater than in times past. Naturally, then, more will compete in a handicap of unlimited prizes than in a contest where awards are rare.

Yes, most of us are after the dollar. To get it seems to mean security—allays uncertainty and apprehension of old-age poverty in the minds of many. Others want money for power. The charlatan wants a bank roll that he may play with many women. The vain man that he may flaunt a high-priced car and a diamond stud before his fellows. His wife he would dress like a prima donna. His children would have a governess, his wife a maid and himself a valet.

The miser loves the very touch of money. To run his fingers through a chest-full of gold pieces soothes his soul like a heavenly harpist descending from the clouds to comfort the spirit of a dying man.

The saintly seek wealth that they may serve the poor. Victor in the commercial contest, they either forget their good intentions or force the unfortunate to worship them as superior clay as the price for the crumbs that fall from their table, groaning as it does under the weight of the richest food of the land.

'Tis a money-mad age, we are told.

Yes. But when has it not been?

Biblical history tells us that the wild tribes of the desert sacked the cities of the Nile and carried away both women and treasure. The thing has been repeated in varying forms down the lines until today, when legal thievery now supplements force and violence.

So it has been, always.

Get the money—how, it does not matter. With it you can buy power, or women, or both, gratify your vanity, fool yourself into a feeling of security against want in old age, be a pious fraud—and in the end die in poverty.

WARD COMPANY ADOPTS CREDIT PAYMENT PLAN

Montgomery Ward and Company has inaugurated one of the most unusual merchandising policies the country has ever seen. The advertisement was carried in last week's Township Register and 900 other leading newspapers, announcing the event.

Announcements have been sent to the company's 10,000,000 customers telling them that from now until September 15 any item in the company's catalog or retail stores except groceries will be sold on Ward's time payment plan, providing orders are for twenty-five dollars or more.

Previously the company has confined its time payment to such items as washing machines, furniture, stoves, and in the face of present business conditions with the general tightening of credit by most retailers, this action of the part of Montgomery Ward and Company is a significant move.

George E. Everitt, president of the company, in announcing the new policy, expresses the belief that there is plenty of money and purchasing power in America, and better business can be brought about by creating an inclination to buy on the part of the public. Mr. Everitt points out that the average weekly payroll of the United States today is conservatively estimated at $840,000,000; that the registered savings accounts in the country total $27,000,000,000 and are steadily increasing.

A. H. Crafts, Hayward manager, states that the new policy went into effect in the local Montgomery Ward store last Thursday and will continue until September 15.

TRAFFIC OFFICERS WAGE WAR ON GLARING LIGHTS

A vigorous campaign against glaring headlights was launched this week and will continue for a month or more, by the Alameda county division of the California highway patrol, it was announced by Captain Louis Elke.

The campaign extends throughout the county with squad members joining with police departments in regular raids according to plans. Night programs are conducted at intervals in the unincorporated sections of the county.

Captain Elke said that the full night squad is being used in the campaign and members of the daylight squad are required to devote one night of each week to this duty.

The customary penalties for defective headlights will remain in force. Motorists stopped are required to immediately enter light stations for adjustments, appearing before justices of peace and displaying certificates. Failure to comply with the edict will result in arrest and subsequent fines.

Brakes were also being tested by the traffic squad near Hayward last week. Wise motorists are having their brakes and headlights adjusted.

Safety Measures Stop Accidents at Corner

Accidents and collisions at Thane's corner have been cut down to a minimum, reports Mrs. James R. Whipple, chairman of the safety council in this township.

Because of the stop sign and the painted traffic lines automobile casualties have almost disappeared at this corner. In previous years there was seldom a week that passed without some accident happening. In one record week there were five serious accidents.

All of this trouble has now been eliminated. Between 5 and 6 o'clock Sunday 1,465 automobiles passed this busy corner. There was no delay whatever in the traffic because of the safety precautions taken by the council which is doing a great work in this county.

Apricot Driers Busy At Peak of Season

The Customer's Dollar

Value of Advertising Is Readily Revealed When
One Considers How Much of a Dollar Goes to Non-advertisers.

Has it ever occurred to you that you can spend the same dollar but once? True, it is possible to acquire additional dollars, but in the spending of them you can only do so once. Of this dollar only about 18c is available for personal pleasure or for gratifying desires in the form of luxuries. This, then, would mean that this 18c is being sought by amusements, sports and personal pleasures of this character. The remaining 82c is already spoken for by the landlord, the grocer and the like.

Hence we see that the butcher is not only in competition with the butcher. More than likely is he to find his competition with the motor car dealer, the theater or any one of a hundred other distracting appeals from sources entirely outside that of the meat supplying business, for people in the majority of cases haven't sufficient money to satisfy all of their desires, and they will divert money which would ordinarily be spent for necessities to gratify some desire for a luxury.

The place of advertising in the economic structure of every day life is to help the individual in arriving at a decision that will give him the maximum for his money, in other words, the greatest value dollar for dollar. Advertising is the vehicle which carries the manufacturer's or advertiser's message to the public; that is advertising is like transportation. Transportation is made up of elements involving automobiles, aeroplanes, trains and the like, while advertising is made up of factors involving newspapers, outdoor advertising, direct mail, radio, etc. Each factor, just as in transportation, fulfills a specific and a definite need, and each one functions in its own sphere, bringing to the consumer information of those things for which he has daily need.

Was Joaquin Murieta Justified In Course Of Banditry He Followed?

Essay by Miss Joy Madsen Points Out Many of the Reasons for California's Famous Outlaw's Hatred of All White Men and His Various Reactions to the Treatment Given Him by Them.

One usually thinks of Joaquin Murieta as one of the worst characters in California's early history. Perhaps he deserves this condemnation, and then again perhaps he deserves better than that. Miss Joy Madsen, Pleasanton school girl, points out in her essay on the famous bandit.

Miss Madsen's essay was awarded one of the honors in the county contest sponsored by the Native Sons of Alameda county. It received the highest of the three awards given essays written by students of Amador Valley Joint Union High School. Her essay also was awarded a prize by the Pleasanton Parlor, Native Sons.

The circumstances leading up to Murieta's first forage into banditry; and how he almost became an honest man again, only to be forced back into evil ways because of the acts of white men, are vividly told in the following essay:

By Joy Madsen

The days of the gold rush in California were of the most romantic times in history. There was little written law, but there was a code that the inhabitants had considered as the law of the territory. There were very few churches, but much religion; no "big business" existed, but men helped each other, and were still rivals to see who could make the most money. On the whole, the territory was quite well governed, even though it did not, for some time, have any governor.

In the midst of this peaceful country of law-abiding men, however, there were other men who were not so law-abiding; men who murdered, plundered, and burned the towns and villages of the honest men. These bandits became well-known throughout California and were feared alike by all men from one end of the territory to the other. They organized bands of men, and became almost as strong as small armies.

Of the best known and most feared bandits, the name of Joaquin Murieta came to be the one name that caused men's faces to blanch at its sound. He killed, thieved, and burned to an awful extent. But looking through it all, there was a human side to Joaquin. How many have thought that there may have been a humane reason for Joaquin's actions a terrific wrong that he felt it his duty to avenge.

Joaquin was born in Mexico and lived there until he was about twenty. His brother, Jesus Murieta, had gone to California some years before and was there when the gold rush began. He wrote to Joaquin, telling him of the vast riches of the Sierras, and advising him to come to the mining country and stake out a claim before men became too numerous.

Joaquin was in love with a young Spanish girl named Rosa. She too was in love with Joaquin, and her father approved of her choice but her brothers did not like him. They called him a "low greaser," and found fault with everything he did. Joaquin was of part Spanish descent and was not to be trifled with, so he decided to take Rosa to California with him in spite of her brothers' disapproval.

He came in the dead of the night, rode beneath Rosa's window, whistled and when her head appeared at the window, called softly, "It is Joaquin." She dressed quickly, took a few of her belongings and went with her lover.

They rode steadily northward all night and shortly after dawn, came upon a small village. They entered the little church there and were married by the kindly old priest.

It was a long and tiresome journey to the gold fields, but Joaquin and Rosa went patiently on. They could not find Jesus, but they did find the Tuolumne River, where it was said, there was gold enough for the whole world.

Murieta staked out a modest claim and had it filed at Sonora, the center city of the gold country. They had no tent, nor had the deed to the Bank of Hayward they time to build a hut, hence they must sleep under the stars.

There were seven Sonora men who had claims across the river from Joaquin's claim. He and Rosa had tried to make friends with them, but they were haughty cold men who thought themselves above Mexicans whom they called "greasers."

Joaquin's claim proved to be a rich one, while those of the seven Englishmen (for such were the Sonora men) turned out, everyone, to be poor. The Britishers were jealous of Joaquin and hated him for his luck, so one night as Rosa and her husband lay sleeping the men came across the river. Murieta, always alert, awoke and got up. Rosa slept on quietly. Joaquin asked the men what they wanted, and why they had come, for it was so late at night. They replied that they desired his claim.

"Oh, but I cannot give you that!" exclaimed Joaquin. "Anything else—if I can help you?" "We want your claim, and we are here to get it!" cried one of the seven men. They pounced upon him and beat him terribly.

Rosa, awakened by the sound of the scuffle, sat up suddenly, and, seeing what was happening, uttered a sharp little scream. Six of the men turned upon her, then, while the seventh tied the almost unconscious Joaquin's hands and feet. They walked upon her and crushed her delicate bones. They even stepped upon her pretty face. Then they recrossed the river and left the unfortunate couple suffering.

Joaquin had witnessed the entire assault upon Rosa and swore loudly that he would have revenge. He was not tied very securely, so, when the others had been gone a short time he managed, finally, to free himself. He went to Rosa and tried to comfort her, but there was nothing he could do. She was unconscious most of the time, and only found breath once to murmur softly and painfully, "Joaquin."

Rosa died that night and Joaquin swore over her body that he would have revenge. He buried her on the river bank and swore again that he would avenge her cruel murder.

What wonder that Joaquin should bitterly hate all white men? He, Joaquin, was part Indian, also, and no white man could treat him thus.

He went to Sonora, and bought a horse, a rope, and two pistols. He went back to the side of the river, where he knelt beside Rosa's grave. Laying his rope and two guns on the mound, he cried loudly, "Oh God, if there is justice here, I will kill those men!" He arose.

He searched the river's banks, but the Englishmen had apparently feared his return and had fled. However, he was not easily put off the trail. He had set out to get revenge and he would have it. He searched them out. One by one he killed them. Two of them Joaquin hung by the neck on a tree, three he shot, and two he lassoed with his rope as he rode by them, and dragged them behind his horse until they were dead.

Such actions by a Mexican will always bring about a bad reputation, and Joaquin found that he could not get work, because, men did not want such a man under them. His intentions at first had truly been to avenge Rosa's death by killing only her seven murderers, but when he found that he could not get a job from a white man he thought that it was just because he was a Mexican and that whites hated his race.

Joaquin came finally to displace all men who were not of his race. He banded with a few other Mexicans, and together they robbed a white man of everything he had and then killed him. Directly following this bold deed, a price was put upon the head of Joaquin Murieta. It became necessary, after that, for Joaquin to kill in self-defense. His band stayed with him, and it was not long before there were rewards for their capture, also.

Self-preservation is the first law of nature, and these men killed many others, at first only in their own right, but later it became rather an enjoyment to them to steal and murder. They terrorized the whole state from one end to the other. Joaquin's band became larger and larger. He led a small army, and his first officer and right hand man was "Three-Fingered Jack" Gar-

LARGEST GRAVEL PLANT ON COAST IS BEING BUILT AT PLEASANTON

Kaiser Paving Company Begins Work On Its Project

OWN 140 ACRE TRACT

Pits Are Located About
One Mile East of Pleasanton

Construction of the largest and most modern sand and gravel plant on the Pacific Coast was begun here during the past week by the Kaiser Paving Company on its recently acquired tract located about one mile east of Pleasanton. The exact cost of plant and equipment was not given out to the public.

Sand and gravel in the 140 acre tract is one of the finest produced in this district, according to J. C. Tompkins, Pleasanton, superintendent of the company's Livermore plant. The Kaiser Paving Company also has other tracts of gravel land which it recently purchased from the Spring Valley Water Company.

The plant which is now under construction is of concrete and reinforced iron. It will be equipped with the latest and most modern type of machinery, it was said.

Ideal transportation facilities are available to the company, it was learned, both the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific railroads being within a short distance of the property. Both utility companies are building spur tracks to the new plant, according to Tompkins.

With the Pleasanton plant in operation, the Kaiser Paving Co. will become one of the largest, if not the largest sand and gravel producing companies in northern California, it was stated. The company operates a plant near Livermore from which 1,000 cars of sand and gravel were shipped during the month of June, alone, and has other plants at Oroville and Mt. Shasta.

The Kaiser Paving Company is international in its scope, having just completed a two-year contract with the Cuban government, Tompkins stated.

From the commercial viewpoint of Pleasanton the coming of the Kaiser Paving Company gives indication that the city will reap a direct benefit. Several score of men will be employed, it was announced, thus giving Pleasanton the assurance of increased payrolls.

A special attraction for Saturday night is the official motion picture of Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling prize fight taken in the Yankee stadium. "Swellheads" is the evening's picture.

The world's greatest comedians, Bert Wheeler and Bob Woolsey, are to appear here Sunday and Monday in "The Cuckoos," with 1500 other nuts and nit-wits. It is the talking screen's first all-roaring extravaganza of fun! Four of the song hits are "I Love You So Much," "Dancing the Devil Away," "Wherever You Are," and "All Alone Monday." Webster's definition of "comedy" falls short but come see "Cuckoos" supply the deficiency.

Next week El Brendel and Marjorie White come in the "Follies of 1930," one of the best reviews of the year.

ICE RECOMMENDED FOR HOT-WEATHER DISHES; DRINKS

According to Miss Doris Costello, home economist, even the hottest summer days have their compensations. "One way of combating a blazing sun is to serve warm-weather drinks ice-cold," says Miss Costello. "Ice is the perfect friend of all beverages from plain water to rare nectar—bubbly drinks or drinks as placid as the old mill-pond."

"Sea-food or fruit cocktails, olives, celery or radishes, are all improved by chilling with cracked ice. A generous use of ice, in fact, is one of the charming customs of American entertaining."

"A sharp ice-pick hanging conveniently near the refrigerator ready for instant use will solve much time and trouble. A stout canvas bag and a mallet for crushing ice are also most useful."

cia, a Mexican who was so called due to the fact that he had two fingers cut off of one hand, and whose chief delight was to cut the throats of Chinamen.

The "home" of the band was established at what is now known as "The Pinnacles," a rather famous government park. They always returned there after each "job." Another hiding-out place of Joaquin's was in the sandstone caves near Brushy Peak in the Altamont district of the coast range. Here he had a cave, inaccessible on one side and always guarded on the other, where he hid. Often when officers came in search of him, he saw them first and shot them before they could see him or where his bullets were coming from.

Joaquin was young and easily impressed when he started his career as a bandit, and his hatred for white men increased as he met only men who had been mistreated by whites. True, he had several in his band who had no Indian blood in them but they were all men who had been wronged by other men of their race, so they, too, helped Joaquin to see only the bad side of the others.

When he was about twenty-three, Joaquin met a beautiful golden haired girl whose name was Carmen. Her father was English, and her mother Spanish. Joaquin fell in love with her, and she with him. He often met her in the garden in secret at night. He promised her he would forsake his awful career and become an honest man, but another disappointment was to meet him.

Joaquin had not been out with the band for several months. He was trying to learn to like white men. Carmen's mother had met him and liked him. She helped him to see her daughter often, and Joaquin began once more, through her, to trust white people. Then Carmen's English father found out that Joaquin was visiting his daughter. He ordered her not to see her lover again. Carmen disobeyed, and her mother helped her. The couple planned to run away but the father found out about the plans and the mother's part in them. He argued with his wife, but she held her ground, also upholding her daughter, but it was of no avail. In his anger he killed her. Later when he was slightly calmer, he took Carmen out of the room in which he had kept her locked, and sent her to a convent with word that she was to be strictly watched. Unable, in any way, to find means of escape, Carmen finally secured a knife and slashed her throat.

The news of the death of his second sweetheart nearly killed Joaquin. The only two women he had ever loved, both killed by white men, for he righteously blamed the father of the last for her death.

After this last tragedy, Murieta went back to outlawry with a vim and vigor that caused all of Central California from Mount Shasta to San Diego to tremble. He became very careless in this last spur of action, where before he had been rather subtle, even though at times he had been daring in his approach to officers who had warrants in their pockets for his arrest.

In 1853 he became so much of a menace that the rather well-known Sergeant Love was detailed to capture or kill Joaquin and his head lieutenant, Three Fingers Jack, and not to come back until he had them. He came upon them on July 25, 1853, in a swamp-camp. A short battle ensued between Love and his fourteen men, and Joaquin and his band.

Joaquin and Jack were killed.

RAPID PROGRESS BEING MADE ON MOKELUMNE RIVER POWER DEVELOPMENT

Better than estimated progress is prevailing on the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's $40,000,000 water and power development on the upper reaches of the Mokelumne River, 50 miles east of Jackson.

The dam shown above is completed to half its ultimate height of 328 feet. This structure will contain 3,000,000 cubic yards of granite rock, and will have a crest or top length of 1,320 feet; it will be 960 feet thick at the base.

The face of the dam will be covered with a re-enforced concrete slab. Work has started on the re-enforced concrete flume which will carry the 130,000 acre feet of flood water impounded by the dam to the Tiger Creek power house, and will be used for the generation of electricity.

The water will be used through a series of power houses after which it will be returned to its natural course in the river, emptying into the reservoir of the East Bay Utilities District.

The flume will be 14 1/2 feet wide and seven feet high. The first unit of this project is scheduled for completion June 1, 1931. Over 1,200 men are now employed on the job.

AGED WOMAN FATALLY INJURED AS AUTOMOBILE HITS REAR OF STAGE

Mrs. Louise Topliff, 87, Dies of Loss of Blood From Cuts

DRIVER OF BUS HELD Charge of Manslaughter Is Filed Against Operator, S. Alston

Blinded by a cloud of dust on the highway between Pleasanton and Livermore, C. W. Topliff, of Oakland, drove his sedan at a high rate of speed into the rear end of a stage at a railroad crossing near the Coast Rock and Gravel Company's plant. The accident occurred about noon on July 4.

Mrs. Louise Topliff, 87, his mother, received cuts about the face from flying glass. She was rushed to the office of Dr. M. E. Eastman, Pleasanton, where she died from bleeding a few minutes after her arrival.

Other occupants of the car were Calvin Topliff, aged six, who sustained a dislocated jaw and Mrs. Esther Topliff, wife of the driver, whose injuries were slight bruises. The accident was witnessed by George West and S. A. Paskewitz, of Pleasanton, who rushed the injured woman to Pleasanton.

The accident, according to the witnesses, occurred when the stage stopped at the railroad crossing, as required by law. The driver, S. Alston, declared that he stopped in the manner required by the railroad commission, and that the stop was not made in a sudden manner.

Topliff, on the other hand, says that the stage was going fast and made the stop without warning and declares he was unable to stop his car from crashing into the stage.

Alston was arrested in Livermore by Traffic officer Anthony Enos on a warrant issued on the complaint of Mrs. Topliff. She charged the driver with manslaughter. He is at liberty under $2,000 bail furnished by the stage company.

ROEDING HOST TO THE PACIFIC COAST NURSERYMEN HERE

Big Barbecue and Spanish Fiesta Given At Nursery.

Around 150 members of the Pacific Coast Association of Nurserymen and their wives were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Roeding, Jr., at a barbecue at the grounds of the California Nursery, Friday. This ended the annual convention held in San Francisco this year.

Entertainment was provided by several Spanish dancers of Decoto, making the affair a real Spanish fiesta. Music for the afternoon was furnished by the Amyx orchestra of the nursery.

Preceding the barbecue the men and women of the convention made an inspection of the local nursery's spacious grounds. People were present from all of the western states and British Columbia. They will return to their respective towns with an excellent report of the conditions in Niles, California.

At the closing session of the convlave held in the Drake Hotel in San Francisco, a protest against the sale of nursery stock by the city, county and state institutions was voiced by R. D. Hartman, of San Jose, of the state nursery committee. He asserted such competition is unfair, as stock sold by such institutions is at cost or below.

Frank Chervinka, of Summer, Washington, reported that bay district bulbs are of equal quality with those grown in Holland or elsewhere.

Next year's convention is to be held in Tacoma, Washington.

President George C. Roeding, Jr., passed the gavel over to W. C. Thompson, the new president of the association.

Sierra Madre — Construction started on $210,000 grammar school building on Highland avenue.

WAITING STATION.

The towering old stone masonry entrance to the lower road has been torn down and likewise the high fence has been lowered.

A waiting room has been built in the center of the half-circle. It is made of large stones with a hand made tile roof. Tile was laid on the floor and part of the station is enclosed with glass windows. Cement benches are placed in the corner of each end. This station affords a place for the inmates to rest after walking down to the highway and mainly affords a station while waiting for the stages.

Superintendent F. B. Hartman reports that there are over 300 residents of the home at present. Temporary offices are in the basement of the annex in the rear of the new administration building.
